

List of Terms for Corrections

Mark or comment	Meaning	Example of erroneous usage
sp. or circled word	spelling	I spell welll.
p	punctuation	The snake shed it's skin.
frag.	sentence fragment	When he also left.
ROS or R/O	run-on sentence	Matilda talked all day then her jaw fell off and she stayed in her room all day out of embarrassment but then she felt better.
WC or WW	word choice, wrong word	I found the rain quite imitating
GW	good word	The rose radiated beauty.
tense or v.t.	verb tense	The rain falls. He stayed in bed.
agr.	agreement	Each boy stowed their gear.
ref.	pronoun reference	Moe hit Joe. He ran away.
unnec. or wordy	unnecessary	Far away in the distance...
NC	not clear	Her love never wavering, and unable to undo what he had failed not to say, she could not refuse to go on.
rep.	repetitive	When Ferdy realized his mistake the realization made him realize what an error he had made.
act.	Use active verbs, rather than passive	The cow was milked by the farmer.
ex.	example needed
¶	a new paragraph should begin
awk.	awkward phrasing	The thoughts jumping through his head made him have something to look forward to.
	parallel construction needed	She went to England, France, and to Germany
C/S	comma splice	Suzy went, happily to the store.
gen	gender neutrality	Man has achieved a great deal this century.
	delete
≡	Capitalization	the moon was bright in the Sky.